The Ezra Jack Keats Bookmaking Competition is a collaboration among the NYCPS, the Ezra Jack Keats Foundation, and Brooklyn Public Library.

Through writing and illustrating their own fiction or nonfiction picture books students combine literacy with art skills to tell their own story. This activity gives students a chance to enjoy using the skills they learn in school and pride in having created a book that reflects their view of the world.

EJK BOOKMAKING COMPETITION GUIDELINES

ELIGIBILITY

Books are judged in the following three categories. Districts 75 & 79 submissions are considered in all categories with the other submissions, and often are winners.

- Elementary School: Grades 3-5
- Middle School: Grades 6-8
- High School: Grades 9-12

PROCESS

- One or more classes, or clubs, engage in the book making process under the supervision of a teacher(s) or librarian(s).
- Each school convenes a team (principal, art teacher, librarian, language arts teacher) to select ONE entry as its School winner*
- The ONE School winner is submitted to be considered as a City winner, Borough winner or for an Honorable Mention
- Books will be mailed back to the school to be returned to students by mid-June, 2024

*SPECIAL EXCEPTIONS:

- Schools with multiple-grade categories may submit one book per category. (Example: K-8 schools may submit a book for the 3-5 grade category, as well as the 6-8 grade category.)
- Individual schools within one campus building, can each submit a book, per grade category (Elementary, Middle and High).
